FAYETTEVILLE (WTVD) -- The foundation is laid and the walls have taken shape in Fayetteville as the Extreme Makeover Home Edition crew works round the clock to build a new home for a family that gives shelter to homeless veterans.

The plan is to give Barbara Marshall the keys to her brand new front door on Langdon Street in just one week.

Marshall, who was featured in ABC11 stories last fall, is a former Navy officer who was using her old home for the Steps-N-Stages Jubilee House for female veterans who need assistance.

Along with housing three women veterans and their children, the Jubilee House works with over 30 homeless women veterans seeking assistance each week.

Producers say the new home the show is building for Marshall will be able to house multiple families. It will also be a place where Marshall's son - who is developmentally delayed - can thrive.

On the build, show host Ty Pennington is getting help from designers Paul DiMeo, Tracy Hutson, John Littlefield and Sabrina Soto.

The new log home is from builder Blue Ridge Log Cabins.

An army of volunteer and other community organizations have stepped up to help, but more supplies are urgently needed. For the latest list, head over to the Extreme Makeover Home Edition website.
