

- Home
- Local
- State
- Military
- Crime
- Business
- Obituaries
- Nation & World
- Sports
- Life
- Events
- Opinion
- Columns
- Blogs
- Cheers & Jeers
- Weather
- Videos
- Photos
- Public Records
- Contests

scan all sections

News by location

- Hope Mills
- Spring Lake
- Bladen County
- Columbus County
- Harnett County
- Hoke County
- Lee County
- Moore County
- Robeson County
- Sampson County
- Scotland County

print email share 0 comment(s)

Published: 07:25 AM, Tue Jul 19, 2011

'Extreme Makeover' volunteers fight heat, clock

Staff photo by Melissa Sue Gerrits

Volunteer crews work inside and out during Extreme Makeover: Home Edition Day 5.

By Amneris Solano
 Staff writer

Goldsboro stone mason Rickey Fair watched the sun set and rise over Langdon Street from the site where he is helping "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition" build a new house.

Fair had been working virtually nonstop since about Sunday evening. He was still on site Monday afternoon, installing a stone feature on the house.

"You've got to do what you've got to do," said Fair, who hadn't had a wink of sleep. "You got to get it done, and sleeping through it ain't going to make it happen."

Fair is one of several hundred volunteers who have been working tirelessly to erect a home for Barbara Marshall, founder of the Steps N Stages Jubilee House for women veterans in transition.

"I've been here since Saturday evening," Fair said. "When the man says, 'Move that bus,' that's when I'll be coming home."

Staff photo by Melissa Sue Gerrits

Work on the roof is prt of the Day 5 construction.

- RELATED:
Pitts: 'Extreme' fans enjoy watching in person
- RELATED:
Michelle Obama to be in Fayetteville Thursday for 'Extreme Makeover'
- RELATED:
Observer's 'Extreme Makeover' page

Most Popular on FayObserver.com

- "Extreme Makeover" excitement builds as first lady expected for reveal
- Two teenage girls accused of stealing Cumberland County Sheriff's Office bait car
- First lady Michelle Obama greets "Extreme Makeover" family
- Fort Bragg soldier accused of injuring girlfriend's 1-year-old daughter
- Man wearing pink dress robs Ramsey Street pharmacy

Most Popular Local Stories

- First lady Michelle Obama greets "Extreme Makeover" family
- First lady Michelle Obama greets "Extreme Makeover" family
- Small plane found in Cape Fear River in Harnett County
- The Reveal: First lady Michelle Obama joins Ty Pennington to welcome Barbara Marshall to her new home
- Fewer Cumberland County schools meet tougher federal performance standards

Most Recent Local Stories

- Dog-hunting team may help track wild packs in Fayetteville
- More details expected in Harnett plane crash
- Kirby: My home a disaster no makeover can help
- Cape Fear region under extreme heat warning
- Soldiers taking steps to avoid heat injuries

FayObserver

Get local and national news updates via E-mail.

Sign up

This is the second time Fair, who has worked as a mason for 30 years, has volunteered with the ABC reality series.

His first "Extreme Makeover" build was about 10 years ago in Princeville, when the show helped a family whose home had been damaged by Hurricane Floyd.

For the Fayetteville build, Fair said, his son, Reginald Fair - a physical education teacher at Reid Ross Classical School - signed him up as a volunteer. He said he didn't mind being volunteered one bit.

"At some point in our lives, we have to give something back to somebody," he said. "I couldn't find anything better than this to do."

In just a matter of days, Marshall's one-story, 40-year-old house was demolished and is being replaced with a two-story log-cabin-style home. The project's builder, Blue Ridge Log Cabins of South Carolina, said volunteers are the lifeblood of the project.

Chip Smith, chief executive officer and president of Blue Ridge, said they still need skilled volunteers, such as masons, carpenters and roofers, as well as donations of water and energy drinks.

The goal is to have the project finished in time for the big reveal Thursday.

First lady Michelle Obama is expected to arrive in Fayetteville that day to be filmed as part of the episode. The reveal will happen at 2 p.m., according to a news release, but spectators can start arriving at 11 a.m. at Fayetteville State University's Langdon Street parking lot. After a check-in process, they will be shuttled to Marshall's new house.

Many volunteers

On Monday, volunteers worked nonstop under a blazing July sun, putting shingles on the roof and landscaping the backyard. Inside the house, workers were installing drywall, insulation and wiring.

"We've come a long way," Smith said. "We still have a way to go. But we can do it with the help of the community."

Volunteers from all over North Carolina and beyond have congregated on the site to assist "Extreme Makeover" in giving Marshall - a 15-year Navy veteran - a dream home to expand her mission of helping homeless women veterans get back on their feet.

That's what brought Marisol Huertas - a Hope Mills resident who works as a nurse at the Fayetteville Veterans Affairs Medical Center - to the site as a volunteer Monday.

Wearing a hard hat and blue "Extreme" T-shirt, Huertas picked up trash around the construction site and handed out bottled water to fellow volunteers.

"I wanted to give back to the community and represent the VA," said Huertas, a fan of the show. "They seem like they care for people. You can see that it's a true feeling of caring."

Elizabeth Evenson-Murphy, a stay-at-home mom who lives in Sanford, decided to volunteer after she heard about the build from a friend. Her husband is looking after their children while Evenson-Murphy works at the site. She has spent most of her time unloading supplies, handing out bottled water, picking up trash and doing whatever else has been asked of her. Monday was her third day of volunteering.

"We've met people who aren't even from around here who come just for one day to help out," Evenson-Murphy said. "It's been overwhelming and exciting."

Staff writer Amneris Solano can be reached at solanoa@fayobserver.com or 486-3521.

<http://www.fayobserver.com/articles/2011/07/19/1109314>